BUY PENINSULA CAMPAIGN INTENSIFIED. Oscar Balzer, chairman of a group of business leaders who have banded together to make shopping at home more simple, convenient and satisfying for Peninsula residents, is shown above as he displays one of the placards being distributed to stores. Mr. Balzer declares: "A great deal of thought and care have been given this program by merchants of all the communities of the Peninsula to obtain superior lines of stylish, appealing, durable and priced-right merchandise for the convenience of our residents."

HAVE YOU BROKEN YOUR AXLE? Judging from reports reaching us, just about everybody in town is getting ready to sue the City of Carmel-By-The-Sea because of the chuck holes--or bomb craters--on Fifth and on Dolores on the way to the Post Office. As you have to go to the Post Office if you want your mail (this explanation for out-of-town readers) practically everyone has seen the mess which is really disgraceful.

The city says the property owners along these streets will have to pay $40 a lot to put in a permanent street surface. Most of the owners have agreed to this, and have put up their money. A few have still to come through, and the Council has unofficially given them a week in which to do so, or proceedings will be instituted to force them to. As it would then cost the recalcitrant owners more money, it is expected that arrangements will be concluded immediately. In the meantime, the city half-way repaired the worst of the holes on Wednesday, but by Thursday morning they were almost as bad as before.

AMONG THE DIGNITARIES at the Hospitality Ball in the Soldiers' Club last Saturday night were (left to right) Edward W. Cochran, publicity chairman; Major General Robert T. Frederick, host for the occasion; Lieutenant Colonel A. F. Solomon, member of the Hospitality Ball committee, and Wilma Campbell, chairman of the committee. Dancing to a 6th Infantry Division band and a stage show made up the evening's entertainment. Last reports show that the 1100 people who attended the ball made it a financial success...and now the Armed Forces YMCA will be able to carry out its plans for Christmas entertainment of the Armed Forces. Photo by Cpl G.R. TUCKER, Fort Ord.

Christmas Post Office Schedule

Beginning Saturday, December 9, Parcel Post and Stamp windows at the Carmel Post Office will be open daily, except Sunday, from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M.

On Saturday, December 9, parcel post windows will stay open until 5 P.M. Starting Monday, December 11, parcel post and stamp windows will stay open daily, except Sunday, from 8 A.M. to 6 P.M. Other windows will close as usual at 5 o'clock week days and 12 noon Saturdays. Bill Woolsey will be stationed in the lobby as usual to receive packages. It is hoped that he will repeat his stunt of last year--wearing different costumes and beards. It made the waiting easier.

On Monday, December 11, the Post Office Annex in the old Telephone Building at the corner of Dolores and Seventh will be open from 8 A.M. to 6 P.M. daily except Sundays. Robert Miller will be in charge.

Boxholders who receive notices of packages too large for their boxes will pick them up at the annex.

Carmel Woman's Club Welcomes New Members

Combining a musical program and tea welcoming 36 new members, the Carmel Woman's Club enjoyed a well attended meeting Monday, December 4.

Mrs. F. E. Vaughan thanked Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston for the Christmas decorations.

Mrs. W. C. Peterson, chairman of the card section, spoke of the Christmas party which will be given by the card section on December 11, from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Gladys Steele, well-known disease, delighted the group with her monologues, and Carl Hague, Norwegian tenor, entertained with Norwegian songs and Christmas numbers.

After the Christmas party on December 11, the next meeting of the club, on January 8, 1951, will feature Kent Roberts in his address: "The World is Looking at us."

Navy Wins And So Does Lt. Bill Mann

Last Friday a Navy publication, LINEWS, published at the Navy General Line School in Monterey, was distributed to personnel at the school...just as it is every week. What caused quite a ripple at the school was not just the publication--but a football forecast contained in it written by one of the students, Lieutenant William Mann. The forecast concerned the Army-Navy game to be played the next day which most people, including lots of the Navy, figured as an easy victory for Army.

Herewith the forecast (Oak Knoll is the Navy mental hospital near Oakland):

"A fever has hit Philadelphia this week. It's an annual fever which comes with the Army-Navy game. Odds highly favor the Army, but I'll make my last bid for a bed at Oak Knoll. Army has played an easy schedule with two soft touches between each of three hard games. Incidentally, they have won them all. Navy on the other hand has not had an easy game all year. The schedule maker at Annapolis must be left over from the era of wooden ships and IRON MEN. He thinks of the middies as Iron Men and arranges a schedule to test that species of mankind. Army will be ready to show the world its might while Navy is being crushed. The Middies have learned a lot under a new coach and will undoubtedly pull the cork. With this in mind, my most fearless prediction is Navy over Army in the upset of year. Oak Knoll, here I come.

With a 14 to 2 victory for Navy, Lieutenant, you won't need that bed...and you can forecast for The SPECTATOR any time you wish.

SATURDAY MADNESS

By Chuck Wilmarth

I like to play a little tennis or fish a bit of a Sunday, and I occasionally find time to show my friends what a real clown can do with a nine-iron in a sand trap. But for pure pleasure, I have always leaned toward football.

Not that I ever played on my college teams or even on the high school scrubs. I admit quite candidly that I reached the peak of my playing career on a sand-lot back in New York.

That's why I know so much about the game--I'm a spectator. I've had some of the best seats in the stadia and bleachers of every school I've ever attended. And that's plenty, because my family moved a lot.

So football is my game. At least it was until a couple of Saturdays ago. That was the day I took a very attractive seven-year-old friend to a Stanford game.

She has lived in British Columbia and, consequently, had never seen a football game. As an expert I decided to introduce her to the mystery of the "T" formation.

Off we went, gaily laughing. We arrived just as the teams rushed out of the tunnel onto the field and commenced their flashy ritual of calisthenics.

"What are those men doing?" inquired my diminutive guest after admiring the size of the stadium.

"Calisthenics," I answered importantly, happy to detect interest at this early stage.

"They look funny," she returned coolly. "Why do they jump around that way?"

I had to admit I couldn't tell why some hundred prime specimens of brawn with muscles hardened to steely springiness should think it necessary to do push-ups all over the field two minutes before the kickoff. I had to admit it and I did.

Presently the teams lined up. The ball was put in place, and the stands were tense. The whistle blew. The ball arched downfield. The safety man caught it, made a short runback and was tackled. We sat down, my date and I.

"Now," I began brightly, "you will see something. Notice the ball down there between the two lines of men? The men in the white sweaters want to pick it up and carry it down the field. They want to carry it over that last line in front of the big white frame."

I was keeping it simple and feeling very proud of my way with children. And me, a bachelor!

"Why do they want to do that?" asked the Small Voice.

"Well, because they get six points for doing that. And the team with the most points wins the game."

"What's a team?"

"A team is...well, just a bunch of eleven men. But never mind that," I went on. "The game's what counts. Now, the other team--uh--bunch of men--"

"Do they always have to have eleven men?"

I caught myself twisting uncomfortably, but not much, mind you. I am very patient.

"Well, no," I said. "No, it just so happens that a new rule lets them have less than eleven men if they want. But--now listen--that other bunch--the ones in the red sweaters--want to keep them from taking the ball down the field. So they tackle them when they run with it."

Appealing blue eyes under blonde bangs...again the ingenuous smile, and the Small Voice spoke--this time with that mastery of the monosyllable possessed only by children and women of cunning.

"Why?"

Now that is a word which, when uttered by any female, no matter what her age, strikes man with terror. That was the point where I knew I was fighting a losing battle. And the amused smiles of people around us emphasized the fact. This master-pupil routine was getting more of their attention than the game. But--besides my patience, I also possess tenacity. I tried.

"Well, just because that's the game, you see. Because the red-sweaters want to keep the white-sweatered bunch from getting any points, and because pretty soon they will get the ball and run with it and get points and maybe win the game."

Then I shuddered just a little when I thought she might ask how the red-sweaters got the ball. That would leave me with the grisly prospect of trying to explain the system of downs and penalties.

As this panic seized me, I caught sight of the popcorn butcher and I croaked loudly for two sacks. Leaning across the woman next to me, I clutched nervously for the fluffy stuff, jabbing my elbow into her eye. Under the menacing stare of her moose of a husband, I meekly paid for the spilled corn and bought two more sacks. The Small Voice, eating happily, was quiet. My popcorn wasn't salted enough.

If you want to get an idea of what I went through in the second, third and fourth quarters--between more popcorn, ice cream and soft drinks--just try explaining Planck's quantum theory to a second-grader some day, providing you understand the quantum theory, of course.

In trying to keep simple my answers to the Small Voice's queries, I made this game of college football sound as preposterous a sport as hunting orchids in the Yukon. Here was I, expert and avid fan, beginning to feel like Andrew White, one-time president of Cornell, who insisted football was nothing more than twenty-two men agitating an inflated pig's bladder on several acres of rich farm land.

Slipping was my love of the game and growing my contempt for fifty thousand people who would spend an entire afternoon urging, with shouts, those twenty-two absurdly costumed gladiators to acts of mayhem.

I was morose, and when, finally, the game was over, both my date and I left the stadium not knowing or caring who had won. My petite, golden-haired friend, simply because she never had cared, I, because something had gone out of my life.

So, I'm off football, and I don't know what I'll do next year on those wonderful Saturday afternoons in autumn. Go fishing, I guess. Will I take the Small Voice along? Probably. You see, she's never been deep-sea fishing, and I want to show her how it's done.

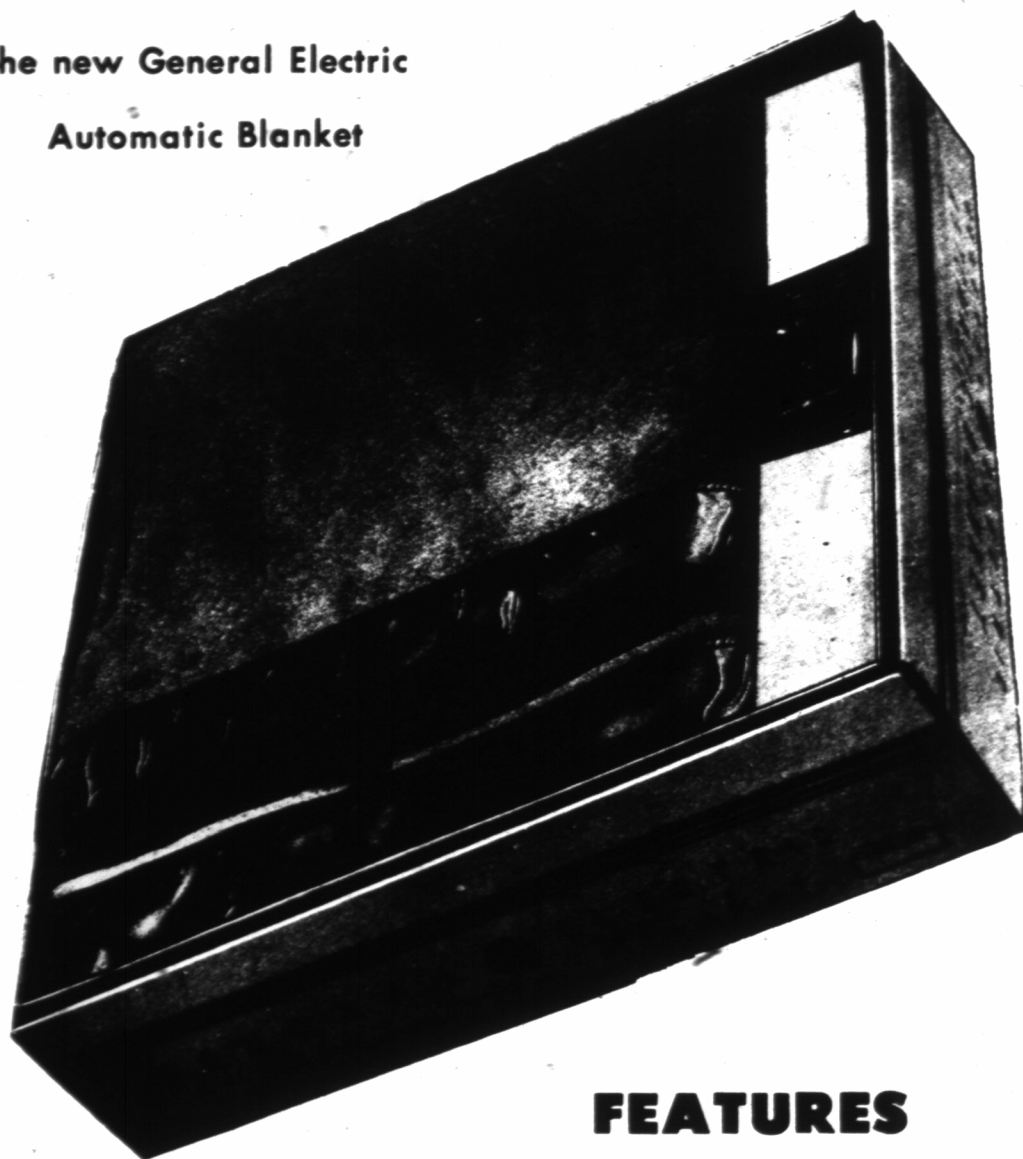

THE AUTHOR of the above, Chuck Wilmarth, is a recent editor of El Yunque, publication of the Monterey Peninsula College. He is now in business in Monterey. Having studied journalism in school and college, he submitted the above to us. We liked it. If our readers would enjoy reading such stories in the SPECTATOR from time to time, let us know, and we will ask other writers to contribute... Ed.

The Lady

A thousand members and guests of The Banshees, New York's famous luncheon club, gathered recently in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to pay honor to genial Jimmy Hatlo, cartoonist creator of "They'll Do It Every Time," who received "The Lady" for 1950.

"The Lady" corresponds roughly to the movies' "Oscar" and is a silver statuette designed by Willy Pogany, presented annually to the artist or writer considered the year's outstanding personage in the newspaper field. It has been won already by Walt Disney, Chic Young and Arthur "Bugs" Baer.

Hatlo made a special trip from his home in Carmel to receive the award. His work, syndicated by King Features, appears internationally in more than 700 newspapers.

An elaborate program of entertainment was arranged for the luncheon, headed by Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar, the television, stars, and several acts from the smash musical comedy "Guys and Dolls," television, stars, and several acts from the smash musical comedy "Guys and Dolls," including Vivien Blaine and the "Take Back Your Mink" chorus and Stubby Kaye and Johnny Silver did their "Nicely-Nicely" and "Benny Southstreet" number. Baer was master of ceremonies as usual and Meyer Davis' orchestra played.

Messages of congratulations poured in on Hatlo, including wires and letters from such notables as Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, Barnard Baruch, Lowell Thomas, Gov. John W. Bonner of Montana, FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover and Eddie Rickenbacker.

A SERVICE FOR DISCRIMINATING BUYERS

Please say you saw it in the SPECTATOR... That will help me have a better column. --Betsy Abbott.

THE BEAUTY OF THE SILK--little holiday dresses--in THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP in Monterey caught my eye. The blue and red geometric designs in the fabric are on red, green or brown backgrounds, and the color effect is of a formal garden, such as that seen in Persian rugs. These prints are of two styles. One has short sleeves and a cute vest of white waffle pique, and the other has three-quarter length sleeves and a hug-me-tight collar with a double edging of black velvet. The price of these little gad-about-dresses is $16.95--and from the viewpoint both of durability and of fun during the holidays, they can't be beaten. These dresses are just a few of a multitude of holiday dresses that THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP, at 489 Alvarado Street in Monterey, has on hand to make your holidays more enjoyable.

THE COMFORT OF HOME, THE COMPANIONSHIP OF FAMILY OR FRIENDS, THE SATISFACTION AFTER CHRISTMAS DINNER--AND THE BLESSED COMFORT OF SOFT CHRISTMAS MUSIC heard in your own home will be yours after you have gone to LIAL'S and selected the musical things you will need to complete this picture. If you have to start from scratch and it is a radio-phonograph you need, LIAL'S has an exclusive on the Peninsula for Magnavox. It can be bought right out of the store and made ready in time for that day of days. If it is phonograph records you need, LIAL'S has unbreakable Vyn-lite and Long-playing records in all three speeds. You may have all labels including Cetro-Sonic classical and popular records. LIAL'S also carries a complete line of accessories from needles to record brushes and cleaners; musical instruments (harmonicas, guitars, etc.) and a self-service rack for miscellaneous popular records. LIAL'S has two locations--one on Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde, Carmel, and the other at 488 Alvarado Street in Monterey.

DOES YOUR HEART WISH TO--BUT YOUR TIME LIMIT YOU--from doing the very best of a super duper job of wrapping your Christmas gifts? If so, don't give it another thought. Your troubles are over, for little elves are here in the form of a personalized gift-wrapping service--at TWIGS of Carmel. Miss Sargeant, the owner, has her window full of samples of her gift wrapping. You can be very gay, very elegant, very conservative, very bright and Christmasy. In other words, whatever mood you wish to convey to the person to whom you are giving the gift can be beautifully executed through the choice of paper, ribbon and decorations used. If you want to use your own paper, just bring it along with the packages to be wrapped. For this skilled and time-saving service, Miss Louise Sargeant of TWIGS, on Ocean Avenue and Monte Verde, in the Golden Bough Court, is charging from 25¢ per package on up.

IN CONNECTION WITH ACTIVITIES OF THE DEL MONTE KENNEL CLUB Mrs. Elizabeth Boyer, president, will conduct a dog training class. Mrs. Boyer hopes to have the classes start immediately after the New Year. Classes will be held at the Mission Ranch, one night a week for two hours, over a period of 12 weeks. Dogs will receive individual as well as group instruction. The fee is $15.00 for the course of lessons. Dogs to be eligible must have had their "shots" and be at least five months old. They do not, however, need to be thoroughbreds. Training leads and choke collars are required. A good supply of these is available at the KNICK-KNACK HOBBY SHOP on Junipero at Sixth, Carmel. Also in this store are Christmas stockings, in several sizes, for cats and dogs. These have been very popular in the past, and all the goodies and playthings that dogs like are in these interesting stockings. Mrs. Clarice Slater, owner of THE KNICK-KNACK HOBBY SHOP, has a complete stock of pet needs, including Victory's very fresh horse meat.

Telephone MRS. ELIZABETH BOYER at 9507 for more information about the dog training classes.

JUST LIKE GOING UP TO HEAVEN--will be your feeling when you step inside VIRGINIA NIELSON'S N.B. FLOWERS SHOP. Mrs. Nielson cordially invites you to come to her shop either just to look or to get ideas that can be worked out for your own home decorations. VIRGINIA NIELSON'S N.B. FLOWERS SHOP right now is a Fantasy--a Walt Disney come to life. The decorations used are not expensive, but are designed to symbolize Christmas and its spirit in the highest way. Children will feel the impact of the true Christmas spirit.

Silvered pine cones with little birds and candle holders, decorated candles, cone shape tinsel Christmas trees, painted weeds (silver, gold and the palest of pink), plastic angels which look as if they are carved out of crisp hard snow, tinsel snow flakes in all colors, permanent Espalier trees, bells, holly, ceramic fruit, holly candlesticks and ribbons...are some of the unusually designed emblems of the Yuletide. MRS. NIELSON'S N. B. FLOWERS SHOP will give you a lift into that wonderful state of mind that will make it easier for you to plan the beautiful, simple decorations that are so essential at this time, and which prompted a child to say when he entered the shop--"Just like going up to Heaven!"

NO SKILL IS REQUIRED to paint your own figurines or to finger-paint. THE CARMEL PAINT AND WALL PAPER COMPANY has a fascinating hobby for young or old. It is a figurine set--figurines and paints. No firing, no baking and no heating are required, and yet the result is a beautiful permanent china glaze effect. A finger painting set (also available here) would be a welcome new experience for the amateur or the expert. You just use your fingers and hands to spread the colors--and achieve an interesting and artistic painting. It is harmless. Will not stain skin or fingers and is easily washed off. For the child, THE CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER COMPANY, on Junipero and Fourth, has washable boards. The child can paint these, wash them off and paint them again.

There are no duds here

The Army's realistic training of draftees and recruits is exemplified in the pictures to the left, taken by Sergeant Peter Schwartz at the Fort Ord infiltration course. Trained under the so-called "Faculty System," which has the men receiving their instruction from the Sixth Infantry Division stationed permanently at Fort Ord, rather than from their company officers, the soldiers are used to live ammunition firing at close quarters. Picture captions are:

(UPPER LEFT): A machine gunner prepares to fire bursts of live ammunition over heads of trainees at Fort Ord's realistic infiltration course. The guns are blocked so the muzzles cannot be depressed accidentally. This does not detract at all, however, from the course's realism. Trainees who have completed the course, as well as World War II combat veterans, are agreed that the zing of the bullets is authentic enough to suit them.

(LOWER LEFT): Half pound charges of TNT explode on the course. These are in pits and electrically discharged from the tower. The machine gunner in the foreground checks on his flank so that an even tempo of firing can be set up over the course. Trainees are given an unlimited time to complete the course, but with the charges of TNT and bullets zipping overhead, few trainees spend unnecessary time on the course.

(UPPER RIGHT): Crawling out of the finishing trench, these two trainees illustrate the stamina required. The men crawl toward the machine gunner through the length of the course. The gunner can be seen in the background as he fires over the men's heads.

(LOWER RIGHT): Washing up after a dusty crawl through the course, these men relax and discuss the day's activities. Troops make one "dry run" on the course, then go through under live firing during daylight and again at night.

PRIVATE KUSTER REPORTS

The SPECTATOR heard the other day from another Carmelite in the Armed Forces. With this note we are starting a policy of publishing the mailing addresses of the men and women from this area who have been in the Armed Forces for some time and also of those who are just going into the service. The SPECTATOR is instituting this policy, believing that readers will wish to know where their service personnel are stationed and perhaps drop them a line. Your editor knows from experience what it means to hear from friends when serving away from home.

New address received this week is that of Pvt. Colin E. Kuster, Squadron 3736, Flight 6260, Lackland Air Base, San Antonio, Texas. If our readers know of other addresses, please send them to The SPECTATOR, Box A-O, Carmel. Overseas addresses should contain APO numbers only.

Carmel Work Center Notes

By Carol Tindell

If you are stuck with your Christmas list we'll let you borrow some of our ideas. We have lots of smart little gifts for little money.

There are Duane Matterson's Egg Bakers, made of stoneware (can be put in the oven)...for only $1.25 each. Then there are glistening Snow Coasters which are wonderful for the holidays...they look so much like Christmas...and are six for $1.00. Joan Savo's cocktail napkins are another smart gift...$2.50 for a set of six. These are the cute little napkins with dogs and cats on them. Another good gift idea are Katherine Allen's colorful individual nut and mayonnaise bowls...and have you seen Harold Landaker's amusing ash trays and figures.

Milton Williams' Candelabras and Hurricane Lamps make very extra-special gifts. You can see Mr. Williams' work and paintings on exhibit at our shop in Pebble Beach.

Have you had any trouble finding us? Some friends asked the other day and when we told them they exclaimed, "Oh, where the telephone office used to be." So, if you haven't been in to see us yet, please do--we'd like to meet you.

TREES--TREES--TREES--IT LOOKS LIKE CHRISTMAS TO LADDIE. And it is Christmas to the rest of us too--when we take the trip up or down the south side of Ocean from Lincoln to Monte Verde. Laddie, the cocker in the above Polaroid One-Minute photograph, belongs to Dick Sumner, one of the shopkeepers in the block who have arranged the beautiful decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Russell have a Christmas stocking hung on a tree outside of their Pine Inn shop. And as we go to press, other blocks are making arrangements to give expression to the holiday spirit.

Peninsula Pets Opens Gift Shop

Bess Prewett of Peninsula Pets, Inc., an organization started a year and a half ago for the purpose of reducing the number of homeless cats and dogs by spaying and locating homes for pets, has opened a gift shop on Lincoln, south of Ocean, in the former Neal Morgan studios.

Proceeds from the shop will further the charitable aims of the group.

A new telephone number is being processed, and the shop will be open daily from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. for the sale of gifts and the usual business of the organization. Every Saturday morning there will be a food sale. All workers for Peninsula Pets, Inc. are volunteers.

Community Concert Great Musical Treat

As rich as we are on the Peninsula in the diversity of entertainment and good musical programs offered us, seldom do we have the opportunity of hearing such a concert as the one given Friday evening, December 1, at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium, under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Community Concert Association.

Ervin Laszlo, the guest artist, is a boy of only 19 years of age--undoubtedly one of the musical geniuses of this generation. Young as he is he has already scored extraordinary successes in New York and other parts of this country, as well as having made his name known on the European Continent. He was born in Budapest, commenced the study of piano at the age of five, with his mother as his first teacher, won first prize at the Music Academy of Budapest at seven years old, made his debut on the concert platform when he was nine, and in his early teens won the Artist Diploma of the Academy of Music of Budapest and then first place in the International Competition at Geneva, where he was pitted against 424 entrants from 40 countries.

The program Friday evening was rich, classical and varied. The opening number was Bach's "Fantasy in C Minor," written originally for the organ, but lending itself to Laszlo's skilled and sensitive interpretation on the piano as if composed for the latter instrument. Needless to say, Bach is a composer for the musically adult. To play the master's music as it was rendered at this concert was proof in itself that this musician--young as he is in years--is not only adult, but possesses the mind of a musical genius.

His technique is remarkable. One could close one's eyes and believe he was listening to Rubenstein playing Chopin's "Polonaise in A Flat Major," or "The Firebird," one of several encores demanded by the enthusiasm of the audience.

Not only was the technique flawless but there was feeling in Laszlo's interpretations. Mendelssohn's "Auf Flugeln des Gesanges," for instance, was played with such charm and gracefulness its melodies sang themselves into one's ears. The sweetness and melodiousness of this rendering were the more remarkable because of their contrast to the virility and strikingly masculine power expressed in much of Laszlo's playing. His virtuosity was exhibited, too, in the ease and seeming effortlessness of his musical performance. Only inborn genius fortified by years of consecrated and concentrated practice could result in such perfect mastery of the piano.

In playing Beethoven's "Sonata in E Flat Major, Opus 31, No. 3," the boy's talent was best exemplified. Only extraordinary musical sensitivity could so interpret the contrasting moods of this composition. From the brilliant Allegro to the light and fanciful Scherzo, on to the graceful Minuetto, and the finale (Presto-con fuoco)--in cascades of sound--this last movement demanding all the forcefulness and skill of technique a musician can command, Laszlo gave no moment of disappointment. Every chord, every arpeggio, every note was perfect, the fingering flawless.

Despite his phenomenal ability, Laszlo is attractively modest and unassuming. He is tall and slight, sensitive-featured, red-cheeked, definitely boyish in appearance, with a natural dignity and no evidence of artists' affectations. He responded understandable pleasure to the obvious enthusiasm of the audience and was gracious and generous with encores. The concert was a musical treat to the Peninsula which will be long remembered.

Dr. Stuart of Stanford Honored At Dinner

A distinguished philosopher received a pleasant surprise last week for his 80th birthday. Henry Waldgrave Stuart, Stanford University professor of philosophy emeritus, was presented with a volume of letters written by 79 colleagues and former students.

Bound in a handsome red-morocco volume bearing the Stanford Seal, they were presented to the distinguished philosopher at an informal dinner at the Pine Inn, Carmel. Professor and Mrs. Stuart have resided in Carmel since his retirement.

Contributors to the volume include Dr. Wallace Sterling, president of Stanford; many prominent professional philosophers, including 11 who were Professor Stuart's students and who paid tribute to his influence in shaping their careers, and students from the first Stanford class to include philosophy graduates--the class of 1912--to the class of 1936, the year of his retirement.

Professor Stuart received his bachelor's degree in 1893 from the University of California and the doctoral degree from the University of Chicago in 1900. He was called to Stanford in 1907 by David Starr Jordan to found a philosophy department; only occasional courses had been given in the subject previously. He headed this department until his retirement.

Presentation of the volume was made by John L. Mothershead, Stanford professor of philosophy, who told Dr. Stuart that it was but a token of the influence he exerted on hundreds of Stanford students during his 29 years of service.

Stamp Club Hears E. R. Blankenship

An auction of stamps and first day covers featured the meeting Monday night of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club in Sunset School cafeteria. After the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Cary C. Smead, Colonel J. R. Wright, president, turned the meeting over to Mr. E. R. Blankenship, who entertained the large gathering during the auction with his interesting comments on the material, as well as the bidders. Items featured in the auction were Russian, Chinese and Newfoundland stamps and a packet of first day covers of U.S. Commemoratives, including all issues of 1950.

The next meeting of the Stamp Club will be a surprise program at Sunset Cafeteria on December 18, at 8 P.M. Old members, new members and guests are cordially invited.

Kreislers Buy Camel Record Shop

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kreisler, well known Carmel residents and property owners, have purchased the Browse Around Music Shop on the choice southwest corner of Dolores and Sixth. The shop features records, sheet music, phonographs, small radios and ukeleles, and has been run recently by "Hedy" Steudler, who will continue to assist Mrs. Mausita Kreisler in the day to day operation.

Mrs. Kreisler is president of the Peninsula division of the United Council of Church Women, and both she and Mr. Kreisler are active members of the Church of the Wayfarer. Mr. Kreisler will continue his position as Carmel representative of the American Automobile Association.

The Carmel Padres broke even on a weekend cage bill last Friday and Saturday by taking the Gilroy tilt 34-25, after losing to Fremont of Sunnyville 37-25 the night before.

The Fremont Indians had too much on the ball for the green hardwood squad from Carmel, as they rang up point after point on accurate lay-ins. Bob Updike carried off the scoring honors for the Padres with ten digits.

Losing the opening night jitters, the Carmelites bounced back to chalk up 34 tallies and a victory over the Gilroy "Mustangs" in the Saturday night affair. This time it was Frans Doelman who won high-point glories, getting 11 counts to his credit.

Displaying the tallest team in recent years, the Carmel quintet might be headed places. Shaping up nicely this week in practice, they open the league season this Friday at Gonzales—the third of 24 scheduled games this year.

The Carmel lightweights hit the win column as they dropped the two initial contests of this season, 33-10, to the Fremont "Papooses," and 30-20 to Gilroy. All-CCAL candidate Butch Laugenour canned 12 points over the weekend to start off the right way. He won the Carmel scoring laurels for both contests.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Admission Requirements Lowered at San Jose State College

Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey High School students who will be graduating in 1951 and who are planning to enter San Jose State College in March or September will find that the requirements for admission are less stringent than they have been in 1950. When the college enrollment exceeded 8,000 in 1949, admission requirements were raised in an effort to reduce the enrollment in the State College to the 8,000 limit imposed by the State Department of Education.

Graduation of a large number of veterans in March and June of 1950 and the current military situation which is resulting in the withdrawal from college of many students are reasons given for revising the admission requirements.

High school graduates may qualify for admission to San Jose State College if they earned four or more academic units in their sophomore, junior or senior years with A or B grades. Those with six or more such units will be admitted in clear standing. Those with less than six such units will be admitted on probation.

CLOSED THURSDAYS DOLORES at 7TH

AZUMA TEI: Long popular exotic eating spot where Japanese food is intimately and authentically served.

COPA-CABANA: the Peninsula's newest supper club. Newly decorated with murals of vivacious dancing girls. Across from El Estero in Monterey. The food and drinks are at their best. There is entertainment and dancing nightly. Also a banquet room for private dinner parties. Under the genial and capable management of Art Beaudin and Woody Wood you are sure to have a gala evening.

BLUE BIRD RESTAURANT: Home-cooked food with a Continental accent. All pastry made on the premises. A favorite eating spot for the Carmelites, for this is the oldest restaurant in Carmel. Right on Ocean Ave.

Wild turkeys increasing in number--news item. Maybe a wild turkey gets that way when it hears what high prices the domestic variety obtain.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S WHO IS IT?

Our "Who Is It" this week is Edward W. Cochran, nationally known newspaper man, best known locally for his work as managing director of the Monterey Centennial.

Mr. Cochran was born in Rome, Michigan. He has never outgrown his boyhood love of his home state, its beautiful lakes and acres of fruit orchards, its wealth of opportunity for the nature-lover and sportsman.
His enthusiasm for fishing today dates back to early outings there in the middle West.

But wider fields soon called. After his college years and his first new-paper position in Kalamazoo, Mr. Cochran heeded the advice "Go West, young man" and headed for Denver, Colorado. Thrilling experiences followed. He worked with a detective agency, rode down into Mexico checking land claims and stakes, and then returned to newspaper work (always his first love)--this time for the Denver police department, though during most of his newspaper career, sports were the backbone of his work. Along the way he sandwiched in some football and some pro baseball. Finally, he accepted the position of sports editor of the Kansas City Journal, in Kansas City, Missouri, with which he continued for 25 years.

In 1931 he married a Kansas City girl, Miss Roberta Martin. On their honeymoon the couple came here to the Peninsula, staying at the old Del Monte Hotel. Right from that time they planned ultimately to return here to make their home for, as with so many others, the Peninsula "got under their skin." But this possibility did not materialize until five years ago.

In the meantime Mr. Cochran was not idle. As one project in his versatile life, he was technical director and helped with the script for the play
"Gentleman Jim," which starred Errol Flynn.

After leaving Kansas City Mr. Cochran joined the Hearst organization as sports editor of the Chicago Herald-American. The following year he was made director of all Hearst sports sections of 22 newspapers in New York and Chicago. Then he became sports director of International News Service and of the King Features Syndicate.
After another five years he moved to New York, where he continued in the same position, but after a year there he decided to retire while there was still time for him and Mrs. Cochran to realize their dream of settling in Carmel. So, here, in 1945, they came to enjoy some years of well-earned retirement.

Three years ago they built a home in Carmel. But Mr. Cochran is of the breed of men who cannot vegetate.
In 1947 he became managing director of the Monterey Centennial. Since, he has served as Chairman of the USO Board of Management, of which organization he has been a member ever since coming to Carmel. He has also been invaluable active in the Red Cross Chapter, the Community Chest, and has worked on school bond drives, putting to great advantage, in each instance, his thorough knowledge of promotion.

Does such an extraordinarily busy person have time for hobbies? He loves both hunting and fishing, especially in the great Northwest, this area having replaced his original preference for the Middle West. And...he takes time to travel, having made trips into Canada, the far North, and only recently has returned from an extensive tour of Europe. Retired? Well, practically speaking. But idle, never.

The belle of the ball is definitely the COUNTRY SHOP this season. Their stunning evening dresses will take your breath away. Can't you see yourself floating round the ball room, yards of taffeta billowing as you whirl? COUNTRY SHOP's models are exquisite--rustling taffeta, nylon net, velvet, marquisette. Bargains, unbelievable bargains are the ridiculously low priced short evening dresses--slipper satin, gold-shot taffeta, pure silk taffeta and ottoman, for just $29.95! One special eye-catcher comes in cherry red ottoman with strapless bodice. Over it a waist-end jacket buttoned with rhinestone balls. After cocktails, off comes the jacket and a perfect dance frock is ready to see you through the evening. This double duty beauty is also priced at $29.95. Other long evening dresses range in price from $29.95 to $65.00.

Perfect ideas for the lady of the house (and safe ones, too!) this Christmas are those decorative planters to place strategically about the house. FLOR DE MONTEREY has a big selection now in Italian ware, pottery, china, copper and brass. These beautiful items will brighten any household immediately...and of course you'll find her favorite Xmas plant too--poinsettia, cyclamen, azaleas and simply dozens of others. Don't forget that FLOR DE MONTEREY is a member of the Florist Telegraph Association, which means you can wire your flowers anywhere in the world to let your friends and relatives know in plen-of time that you're thinking of them.

"A" for fashion goes to MAXINE'S this week for their smart new over-blouses that come in four styles, to suit absolutely everyone. And such delicious colors--rich red, shell pink, sky blue, aqua, winter white and black. For all of you who've longed for the dressed-up mood in "separates"--here it is at MAXINE'S--with blouse sizes running from 32 to 38. One special and all-pleasing number is formal enough to top your favorite evening skirt. All blouses are Sherwood-of-California creations. Of course MAXINE'S has the perfect skirt accompaniments for their blouses--and others, too, for sportswear and school.

What's new at the SILVER THIMBLE? Why, it's those stunning Yolande blouses arriving in daily dozens at the shop. Yes, ladies, that perfect suit blouse, the one you've been waiting for, is here now at the SILVER THIMBLE. We haven't seen blouses like this since way back when...with such exquisite detail worked about the neck and the skin-loving material you love to touch. And P.S., Yolande nightgowns and slips are whisking in, just in time for Xmas. Either for your Xmas or HERS, put Yolande on your list.

The new and the unusual is being shown on Ocean Avenue at LYNN'S LIMITED. Here you'll find fascinating exotic jewelry--carved ivory flowers from Hawaii giving a dainty shell-like effect; necklace and earring sets made from lustrous shells that look just like large baroque pearls. Lynn calls these her "Pearls from Paradise." Other unique Christmas ideas are LYNN's pure silk scarves, supreme for either dress or sport, Lynn-designed with her own strikingly original patterns. To see these and other mysteries of the Pacific Isles, visit LYNN's, right on Ocean Avenue, between Lincoln and Monte Verde.

For the gentleman in doubt--Your wife has everything, but "....." Your daughter wants everything, and "....." Your sweetheart says "nothing, really," but ".....?" The CINDERELLA SHOP will fill out every "....."! Every "she" on everybody's list wants a new dress, and every first SHE should have one. For demure Xmas Eve and friskiest New Year, for glamour cocktail twilights or trimly tailored lunch, CINDERELLA SHOP has the perfect frock and in a wide size and price range. Give the girl her own Xmas wrapping this Yuletide, the CINDERELLA SHOP model that will keep her holiday-sparkling throughout the year.

It takes a beautician to give you a real permanent--we all agree on that! And the beautician we think of is Mr. Woodard of WOODARD'S BEAUTY SALON, right in the mezzanine of Monterey's San Carlos Hotel. He knows exactly how to style your hair to suit you and only you, to bring out the fine points of your particular beauty.

Each curl fits into the right place, under his hands and combs out into a frame of soft, natural-looking waves. We all want to look extra-special for the holidays, so why not make an appointment soon? Just dial 2-3996.

Is your dinner-menu inspiration flagging lately? Well, MAC'S POULTRY MARKET has delectable items to make that family sit up and look twice! You can buy your favorite pieces of chicken separately--all the choicest bits for your table. And for the holiday festivities you can buy your tender, juicy turkeys whole or in half this year. Naturally MAC'S has a mouth-watering selection of plump young turkey-hens along with their fryers, broilers and fricassees. Make your selection soon--on San Carlos between 5th and 6th--and make MAC'S POULTRY a habit.

"Because you love nice things" is the theme song at HARRIET DUNCAN'S, and she offers them to you in a complete Van Raskie nylon wardrobe. Tricot slips are priced at $6.95 and nightgowns start at $8.95. You'll find luxury at a tiny price here with the daintiest petticoats at $5.95, lace-trimmed and (sensation!) an accordion pleated slip (don't miss this one) in a becoming shade...for just $10.95. Stockings, of course, are ever present in new fall and winter shades. You can't go wrong on Van Raaite nylon--so take a peek at what is offered chez HARRIET DUNCAN.

What are you giving the apple of your eye for Christmas? Well, if he (or she) is from the toddler stage to four years, we suggest those snugly cardigans and pullovers at the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP. Made of Botany yarn they come in all pastel shades or fire-box red. (You can really find 'em in a crowd!) Cardigans are $5.75 and pullovers $5.25. For that "casual sporty look" in the three-year-old you'll find gaberdine slacks with a verry smart Eisenhower jacket, also in pastels and flashy red! Their price is $9.95. Combine winter and Christmas shopping for your tots at the CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP.

The most wonderful invention of the century is for sale at HOLMAN'S TOY DEPARTMENT. On-a-Lite Xmas tree lights for only $2.49 a box! How do they work? To begin with there's a 25-foot extension cord that you wrap around your tree, then decorate the tree right down to the tinsel, stand back and see where lights are needed, then screw them on to the cord anywhere you like--each light burns individually. At last no more juggling and tangling with cords and lights. They go where you want them to. Extra sockets and cords are available. HOLMAN'S TOY DEPARTMENT are also getting a complete line of imported German Christmas tree ornaments. They'll be here soon...so watch for them.

Attention, all antique collectors and prospective decorators! DAVID AND ARTHUR have just obtained an impressive selection of colored Bristol glass boxes, wonderful and different, too, for cigarettes. Another new group of gems are those beautiful cranberry lustres that brighten any household. For Christmas especially you'll see a bright array of inexpensive gifts from $2.00 and up. And...don't forget the "What you offer" sale that's going on right now and will continue until Christmas. Of course DAVID AND ARTHUR reserve the right to refuse your offer--but come in and bargain with them anyway--you're always welcome.

You're always stumped for just the right gift for some member of your family and if you run out of original ideas the CARMEL DRUG STORE can supply you with a whole truckload of new suggestions for that perfect something. In the cosmetic line they are unsurpassed. Among a few of the top names you'll find Alexander de Markoff, Matchebelli, Elizabeth Arden, Germaine Montell, Schiaparelli and Lucien Lelong. Photograph equipment is another idea for all, and for the perennial smoker a beautiful selection of Ronson lighters--from $6.00 to $25.00--both pocket and table lighters. We could go on for hours...but instead we'll just let you peek for yourself!

How would you like a sweater that looks like cashmere, feels like cashmere and actually is 50% cashmere for just $10.95? At last they're putting out women's sweaters in that wonderful new combination: 50% cashmere and 50% nylon. And who has 'em? Why, KRAMERS, of course. These marvelous sweaters have all the classic charm of pure cashmeres and are tested for shrinkage. As we said, the short sleeved pullovers are $10.95; long-sleeved cardigans $13.95. Such delicious colors, too! Luscious shades of yellow, walnut, navy and Haiti red. Special item--is the club-collar shortie, also at $13.95--on display now at KRAMER'S.
